We are going to be committed to community economics

Economic practices that enhance real community rather than destroy it.

Economics & quality of life.

Technologies that increase the quality of life.

Technologies & economic practices that create | sustainable ~~[illegible]~~ sane relationships between – humans & nature

or that do not disrupt the possibilities of sustainable, sane relationships ~~between~~ among humans & between humans & nature.

○ Jerry's point is the alternatives are known, they are out there, but they do not have a chance because of the overwhelming propaganda & infrastructure of the mega technologies.

For the Millennium

What we were in 70's – | back to land soft energy
– c | community – not property
low tech
human scale

What this translates to in the time of the Millennium:

– Mega technologies
– corporation 'Tsunami'
– end of Cold War
– ~~[illegible]~~ victory of global capitalism

Non-partisan – neither Republican Democrat
(or green?)
